Claim Objections

Claims 4-18 are objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c) as being in improper form because a multiple dependent claim cannot depend from any other multiple dependent claim. See MPEP § 608.01(n). Accordingly, the claims have not been further treated on the merits.

Specification

Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

(Namely, it is improper to use the term "invention" in an abstract.)

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. For claim 1, line 7, it is unclear whether or not the transverse supports are the same transverse supports claimed previously.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1 and 2 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Wolf (German reference 299 22 976) in view of Wolf (German reference 0,594,939). Wolf 976 teaches a table (Fig. 1), comprising a substructure, which is supported by legs (see legs in Fig. 1) placed on a standing surface, and a tabletop (13) placed onto the substructure, characterized in that the substructure is formed from a) at least two transverse supports (2) which in each case in the center have a lowered channel zone from which extend in opposite directions respective extension arms (4) which have a leg mount (3) and a strut mount (5, openings could accommodate one end of a cylindrical channel), the transverse supports being arranged, spaced apart from each other in parallel, transversely with respect to the longitudinal extent of the table; and b) respective side struts (1) which, in the longitudinal extent of the table, bridge the strut mounts (5) of the transverse supports (2), which strut mounts are placed in each case on one side of the table. For claim 1, Wolf fails to specifically teach a channel which, in the longitudinal extent of the table, is secured on the at least two transverse supports, thus producing a double T in top view; the channel and openings are U-shaped, V-shaped or rectangular and that the channel is upwardly opened. Wolf' 939 teaches an elongated U-shaped support (11) attached to complimentary openings (15) in supports (14). It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to modify the table of Wolf'976 by adding a channel between the supports, in respective opposing openings, such as is taught by Wolf' 939 to reinforce the center of the table structure and to provide a cable management system with the table.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claim 3 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
